Sheep the Farmer's Friend.

The sheep is the fertilizing friend of the farmer. It returns to the soil 80 per cent of what it consumes in the way of fertility. It will eat what other animals will refuse to touch. It is a browser and bites close. It will chew weeds and waste right down to the roots and in new country will eat off the young shrub as fast as it makes its appearance. All the while it is engaged in this good work of fertilizing the land and putting it into condition to yield its increase the sheep is piling on wool and making mutton out of the weeds and rubbish and thereby returning to the farmer a little in each hand. —Live Stock Report.

NEW JERSEY'S GOVERNOR HERE

Governor John F. Fort and Party Arrive at Maneuver Camp for Brief Visit. No Ceremony for Executive.

Gettysburg had another distinguished visitor today in the person of Governor Fort, of New Jersey, who came here to see the New Jersey troops in the camp of instruction east of town. Governor Fort and party came by automobile from Carlisle where they spent Monday night with Judge Sadler.

The following composed the party Governor John Franklin Fort, Adjutant General Wilbur F. Sadler, Jr., Austin Colgate, personal aide to the Governor; and Lewis S. Sadler, of Carlisle. They took dinner at the Eagle.

Before coming to Gettysburg the New Jersey executive expressed the desire that his visit to camp should not interfere with any of the work or routine and in view of this no review was planned and no ceremony attended his entrance into camp.

Brigadier General Witherspoon called upon Governor Fort as did others of the officers at division headquarters. The New Jersey troops' camp was inspected thoroughly and Governor Fort expressed himself as delighted with the appearance of things.

The great portion of the day was spent by the party on the battlefield. Captain Long acting as guide.

Governor Stuart is expected to come to the Gettysburg encampment on Wednesday of this week, accompanied by Adjutant General Stewart and Private Secretary Miller, and possibly by some of his military staff, and will return to Harrisburg on Wednesday evening.

This evening the governors of the two states will dine at the summer home of Judge W. F. Sadler at Boiling Springs.

A RECENT WEDDING

We have been requested to publish the following account of the Bowman-Deatrick wedding taken from the Harrisburg, Virginia, Daily Times. An account of the event was published in these columns several weeks ago.

Gettysburg, Pa., was the scene of a wedding which is of great interest to valley people, for both of the contracting parties are well known here.

The bride was Miss Zula Deatrick, for the last two sessions a member of the faculty of Massanutten Academy, and in her scholastic work she became endeared to the whole student body. The bridegroom is Captain Samuel H. Bowman, a retired farmer-merchant, and Confederate soldier, and one who has been eminently successful in his business career. He is a gentleman of considerable means, Captain Bowman has one son, Charles L., a prominent Washington banker, who at one time was cashier of the First National Bank, of Mt. Jackson, an institution of which the Captain's son-in-law, Mr. George R. Geary, is now cashier. Another son, Frank S. Bowman, is the owner of a large department store in Woodstock and another son is a Baltimore druggist.

Soon after the death of his first wife some 15 years ago Captain Bowman divided his property into five parts, giving each of his four children a share and keeping one himself. It is generally believed that he has largely enhanced his own by judicious investments.

SENT TO PENITENTIARY

Judge Wanner, of York, on Monday sentenced Clarence Brenneman, a young farm hand of Codorus township, to an indeterminate term in the Eastern penitentiary of not less than three nor more than 12 years on the plea of guilty to a charge of administering Paris green to Annie Miller, Minnie Miller and Melvin Young. The poison was placed by Brenneman in the coffee of the persons named, against whom he had a grudge that he wanted to satisfy. The crime was committed on June 3. Brenneman confessed his guilt to Chief of Detectives White in the presence of several officers of York. On the charge of administering poison with intent to kill, the sentence was not less than one year and nine months and not more than seven years, and on an additional statutory offense his sentence was not less than one year and three months and not more than five years.

PRICES AT THE CURB MARKET

Vegetables of All Kinds on Sale at Curb Market. Raspberries not so Plentiful as Last Week. The Prices Asked.

The curb market this morning afforded an excellent opportunity for Gettysburg people to get the finest products of Adams County's gardens and truck patches. There was the usual number of wagons at market all of which had a good supply of vegetables and fruits.

Tomatoes sold for 25 cents a dozen; beans 30 cents a peck; cucumbers 3 for 5 cents and onions, rhubarb, radishes and other vegetables 5 cents a bunch, with the bunches varying in size at different wagons. New potatoes brought 80 cents a bushel. Sweet corn brought 30 cents a dozen.

There were a number of chickens on the market. Old chickens sold for 17 cents a pound while spring chickens brought from 18 to 22 cents.

The raspberry crop showed a falling off at the market, not so many being brought in as on Saturday. Black raspberries sold for 8 cents a quart and the red and white ones for 10 cents.

The usual crowd of buyers was down during market hours, and things generally found ready sale.

DESTROYING POTATO BEETLES

A request for particulars as to using Paris green in "shorts" for destroying potato beetles, came from Adams County to State Zoologist H. A. Sarface, who sent the following reply:

"Replying to your letter asking how much Paris green to use in a bushel of shorts to destroy potato beetles, I beg to say that your inquiry presupposed a formula which I have not tried, and, consequently, do not recommend. It is not necessary to use shorts with Paris green for this pest. If you are going to apply the poison in the dust form, I should mix the Paris green with a much cheaper material than shorts. Leached ashes, air slacked lime, or even finely divided road dust would be good to mix with the Paris green, mixing one part of dust, to be applied over the plants when the leaves are damp with dew or recently fallen rain, but the application should be uniform, and it will not then give as satisfactory results, nor be as easy of application as spraying with an arsenical poison of water.

"What I recommend for the potato beetle is, either one half pound of Paris green, or two or three pounds of arsenate of lead, in fifty gallons of Bordeaux mixture. The arsenate of lead is the best material that can be used, because it is more poisonous to the pests, less injurious to the plants, remains better in suspension in the spray liquid, so that it makes a more uniform application, and sticks longer on the plants. One spraying with arsenate of lead will easily take the place of two or three sprayings of Paris green, in point of duration or endurance, while one spraying of Paris green will take the place of from four to six dust applications if it should be rainy and the material is thus carried away.

"It is not necessary to use the poison with Bordeaux mixture for the beetles alone, as its use in water would be sufficient for killing these pests; but while you are at the operation, it is as easy to apply the combined fungicide and insecticide, and thus be able to prevent plant disease as well as kill insects."

AGED MAN HAS DISAPPEARED

Samuel Haugh, of East Middle Street, Left Home on Saturday and has not been Heard from Since.

Samuel Haugh an aged man who lives with his daughter, Mrs. W. W. Krebs, on East Middle street, left home on Saturday morning and has not been heard from since. It is feared that he may have come to some harm and any news of his whereabouts will be much appreciated by relatives if it is telephoned immediately to this office.

Mr. Haugh left the home of his daughter on Saturday morning and was last seen going out Baltimore street. He has a number of relatives living in Harney, Taneytown and the vicinity of Littlestown but these have all been communicated with and no trace of the man has been found. A search of the country south of Gettysburg has been made with no success.

The fact that Mr. Haugh is well advanced in years and not in good health has caused considerable apprehension to his relatives here. He is a tall man with white hair and a white mustache and will be easily recognized. Another point of identification is the fact that he is very unresponsive and scarcely talks to strangers.

FIGHT RATTLESNAKES

The biggest and most thrilling snake story that has drifted down from the mountains this season was heralded when Frank Delosier and George Reichard, of Black Corner, reported an adventure they had had the previous day with rattlesnakes, while picking blackberries.

The men said they were busy gathering berries from a clump of high bushes, when their attention was arrested by the buzzing of seemingly hundreds of rattlers, which seemed to surround them.

They hesitated from their work for a few minutes to make observation and prepare themselves for battle. Within only a few feet of Delosier was a rattlesnake in a position to strike.

"That was not the only snake, either," said Reichard, "for immediately in front and to my right I espied four of the largest rattlers I ever gazed upon, and I have seen many during my stay in the mountain."

The men say they killed 27 of the snakes and sold the skins to a Philadelphia, who uses all he can get for making pocketbooks.

BRIEF NOTES FROM BIG CAMP

One Regular Dies from Injuries on way to Gettysburg. Conduct of Militia Continues to Please. Jersey Troops Parade.

The Pennsylvania and New Jersey militia men are down to hard work today maneuvering. Advance and rear guard duty with flank guards and patrols occupied the attention of the men who were taken out in battalions. Brigadier General C. Bow Dougherty, in command of the Third Pennsylvania Brigade, and Brigadier General Collins, of New Jersey, gave the work their personal attention.

The parade on Monday afternoon was given by the Second New Jersey, which made an unusually fine appearance. General Witherspoon and Brigadier General Collins stood side by side as the troops passed in review and made a striking contrast, the commander of the encampment being short and thin and the New Jersey general being the largest man in camp.

Private Sheffer, of Company D Ninth Pennsylvania, was put in the guard house Monday evening for having stepped out of line during inspection. He escaped later in the evening and kept a patrol busy all day hunting for him.

The new troops in camp are exhibiting considerably better behavior while in town than did the guardsmen here for the first period. However, there was some rowdiness on Monday evening but nothing objectionable.

Private John J. Renth, of the Twenty Ninth United States Infantry, died at Reading on Sunday from injuries received while on his way to Gettysburg. He had been visiting his mother in Lebanon and was on his way to join his regiment when he stepped from the car at Reading. He was late in boarding the train, fell and struck his head sustaining injuries which resulted fatally Sunday. Notice of his death was received at camp on Monday.

ST. SWITHIN'S DAY ON FRIDAY

According to tradition, next Friday will determine those regions of the world that will go dry for the next 40 days from July 15.

The way of forecasting the summer weather does not come from the modern weather bureau, but goes back 10 centuries. St. Swithin was chaplain to Egbert, King of England, and was tutor to Egbert's son, Ethelwulf. He was afterward bishop of Winchester, and died in 902. He was buried, according to his own wishes, outside the cathedral of Winchester, where the rain of heaven could fall upon his grave.

But when the Bishop was canonized as St. Swithin, about a century after his death, the monks thought his grave too lowly for so great a man, and they prepared to move his body to a hand-some crypt inside the cathedral. July 15 was the day set for the removal of his remains, but on that day a heavy rain set in and prevented any attempt to move the body.

The rain continued intermittently for 40 days, and the monks took this as a sign of the displeasure of heaven at the proposed removal and allowed the body to remain where the saint had decreed and requested before his death.

WOMAN HARVESTS CROP

Although past the three score and ten mark in her life, Mrs. Samuel Seiple, who resides in York county, is perhaps the oldest woman harvester that this section of Pennsylvania has at the present time. Mr. and Mrs. Seiple have a small farm and this year's crop of wheat is grown on a one and one half acre field. Monday the Seiples found the grain to be dead ripe but Mr. Seiple, who is employed elsewhere, did not have time to harvest it. Here is where Mrs. Seiple stepped into the harness and with only a sickle she cut and bound the year's crop of wheat, shocked it and had some time left to do various other things. Considering her age this is considered a big day's work.

Mrs. D. A. Riley, of York street, is spending several days among friends and relatives in Fairfield.

WANTS MEN TO BE NEAT

Colonel George E. Rickards, commanding the Sixteenth regiment National Guard, has addressed a communication to the men of the regiment asking that they pay particular attention to their personal appearance while in division camp at Gettysburg in August. In his address Colonel Rickards says that while fifty nine men in a company may be perfect in neatness, the sixtieth man may be a "sloven" and thus lower the standard of the company.

FEEDING THE PIGS.

Peculiarities of Animals' Structure
Necessitate Concentrated Foods.
A small stomach and an extensive intestinal canal are peculiarities of the pig's structure which have to be considered in the matter of feeding in the opinion of a prominent swine herder. The smallness of the stomach indicates the necessity of concentrated food, and the large intestinal canal points to the fact that a large quantity of food can be disposed of.

While it is obvious, however, that concentrated food is adapted to the pig's organism, it is inadvisable that it should be given an unlimited diet of this food. Potatoes, etc., may not be so excellent for the purposes of development as barley meal, but a certain quantity of these not only reduces the feeding bill, but diminishes the risk of overfeeding.

Recent experiments have shown that fattening pigs should be fed at least three times a day, and a third meal, given as late in the evening as possible, should be the heaviest. The roots which suit pigs best are swedes and potatoes.

We have known cases where cabbage have been fed to fatten pigs, but they are of no use. Skim milk, barley meal and potatoes are excellent for pushing the carcass along, but there does not appear to be much advantage in boiling the tubers.

The claim has been made within the past few weeks that the packer has been doing the farmer a kindness by boosting the prices of live stock to such unusual levels. This is nothing but a packer's trick. There is nothing the packing interests deserve any particular credit for, for the supply has been so scarce that high prices have had to be offered to supply the fresh meat trade. It is safe to say that when the rank and file of feeders have sent stuff into which they have been cramming high priced feeds to market the prices will have suffered a disastrous slump. Judging from his past conduct, when you find the packer doing anything on the benevolent order for the stock raiser the devil will have turned saint.

HOT-WEATHER DIARRHEA

In the summer people of all ages are very subject to "running of the bowels." Germs get into the food or water, find their way into the intestines and keep irritating them so that there is a constant desire to have movement. It is very weakening, destroys appetite, disturbs sleep and produces an itchy feeling that many suppose to be piles. There are many "quick cures" for this aggravated form of dysentery, but they usually contain a narcotic, and that is dangerous. Others try salts and laxative waters, but they have no permanent effects. It takes a remedy with ingredients such as are combined in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to drive out the trouble-causing germs, to clean out the intestines, to strengthen the stomach and enliven the liver. Ordinary remedies cannot do this, but it is a well known fact that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin does it. Thousands use it every summer for this very purpose. Go to your druggist today and buy a 50 cent or $1.00 bottle and see what it will do for you. It is guaranteed to do what we claim or money refunded. It has enabled thousands of families to cure themselves of simple ailments. If you have never tried it send your address for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE to

REPUBLICAN LEADERS.

President Taft, Colonel Roosevelt and Governor Hughes.

GOV. HUGHES TO SEE ROOSEVELT

Important Political Conference at Oyster Bay Today.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 12.—The unusual silence that has surrounded Sagamore Hill for the past few days will be broken today on the arrival of Governor Hughes. If the governor fails to show up late in the afternoon the hitch in arrangements may be laid to some sudden call which Hughes had not expected, for the colonel announced that the governor would be here without fail, and the governor has also divulged his plans. He will remain overnight.

There is nothing mysterious about this much-talked-of conference. Neither Colonel Roosevelt nor Governor Hughes has made any effort to keep the meeting a secret. It is known positively that they will talk politics, making a sweeping survey of the state situation from one end to the other. Since Mr. Roosevelt was turned down by the legislature at Albany on his endorsement of the direct nominations bill he has naturally become more interested in the proposition than he ever was before. The newspaper criticism of his editorial duties in the Outlook has tended to make him all the more keen to have the governor talk things over with him.

The visit of Governor Hughes to Oyster Bay was discussed freely here. Colonel Roosevelt had nothing to say concerning it, but it is believed the colonel did not send Loeb to Burgess Point to patch up anything between him and President Taft, for the colonel is not in the habit of working in that manner. As a matter of fact, the theory of a personal breach between the president and ex-president has been exploded so far as Oyster Bay goes.

MADRIZ DEFIES U. S.

Removes Pittman, American Prisoner, Without Giving Notice.

Washington, July 12.—Dr. Madriz, the so-called president of Nicaragua, has ordered the removal of William Pittman from Bluefields without notice, thereby committing an act which he is asked to explain immediately to this government.

The offense of Madriz lies in the fact that his faction had promised Mr. Moffatt, the United States consul at Bluefields, that Pittman, the young American soldier of fortune who fell into the hands of the Madriz soldiers, would not be removed except on notification to this government.

The case has been reported to Secretary Knox at his summer home. This government notified Madriz long ago that he would be held responsible if Pittman were not treated according to all the rules of war. Fearing that the prisoner might be barbarously dealt with, the navy department instructed its officers on the scene to visit him in his prison at Bluefields and keep an eye on him constantly.

GEORGIA FOR INCOME TAX

Upper Branch of General Assembly Ratifies the Amendment.

Atlanta, Ga., July 12.—By a vote of 23 to 18, the income tax amendment was ratified in the upper branch of the general assembly. Practically every senator took occasion to explain his vote.

In the lower house the income tax resolution was made a special and continuing order until disposed of.

Ice Cream Cones Kill Two.

Butte, Mont., July 12.—Two are dead and one other is seriously ill as the result of ptomaine poisoning, brought on by eating ice cream cones. Edna O'Brien, five years old, and her sister Flo, three years old, died in agony a few hours after eating the ice cream. A baby eighteen months old is also seriously ill.

A grand rally of grangers was that of June 4, when Tompkins county grange held its regular Pomona meeting at Ithaca, N. Y. Commissioner of Agriculture Pearson is lecturer of this grange, and it goes without saying that he had a fine array of speakers.

TAFT AND LOEB DISCUSS TARIFF

Wants His Views Placed Before
Colonel Roosevelt.

COMBATS THE INSURGENTS

Politicians Believe as a Result of This Conference President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt Will Understand Each Other.

Beverly, Mass., July 12.—William Loeb, Jr., collector of the port of New York, and intimate friend of former President Roosevelt, conferred with President Taft. Results of far-reaching importance are expected.

It was announced that the conference was to be "on the general political situation." A brand new angle was given to the visit when it was reported that the chief topic of his talk with the president would be the Payne-Aldrich tariff law.

President Taft, it is believed, is anxious that Colonel Roosevelt should make a careful study of the new law before committing himself in any way. The colonel undoubtedly has had the "insurgent" view of the tariff pretty well drilled into him by Senators Beveridge, Bristow, LaFollette and the others who have been to Sagamore Hill. Mr. Taft, the report goes, wants the colonel to have the administration view.

Loeb as Tariff Expert.

The report that the tariff was to be the principal theme of discussion seems to be borne out by many circumstances. It is admitted that Mr. Loeb was summoned to Beverly by C. D. Norton, the president's secretary, with the full knowledge of the president. Mr. Loeb's duties as collector of the port of New York bring him in touch with the tariff, and probably he knows more about the actual political working of the law than any other man.

The advantage of a Taft-Roosevelt alliance would be mutual. The colonel would be benefited by the support of the federal patronage wielder in New York state. Taft would gain by the prestige of being backed by his predecessor.

The president is credited with a desire to understand just where his former chief stands. Recent events at Oyster Bay and the news dispatches that have been sent out from Beverly have put both Taft and Roosevelt considerably up in the air. They apparently are working at cross purposes, which is not desirable to two men, both of whom are anxious for the success of the Republican party at the November elections.

With no desire to question Colonel Roosevelt's acts, the president at the same time has a natural curiosity to know just what the former resident proposes to do that he may shape his course accordingly.

In political parlance, it is believed that before this conference is ended there will have been a show-down. Taft and Roosevelt will then understand each other perfectly.

The facts Mr. Loeb's visit has disclosed thus far are:

That Colonel Roosevelt's consent to speak for Senator Beveridge in Indiana was obtained under the plea that he had promised to speak in Massachusetts for Senator Lodge, who is classed as a reactionary, and that to support an insurgent was necessary to even things up.

That the reason so many insurgents have been received at Sagamore Hill is that Colonel Roosevelt sees almost everybody who asks an appointment.

That President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt are on terms of friendship and that there has been no political break between them.

That Colonel Roosevelt had a "bully" time when he visited President Taft at Burgess Point on June 30.

The president has told friends before this that Loeb will be "a good man for the governorship." In answer to inquiries as to that boom Mr. Loeb was not communicative.

It is believed here that there is no question as to the O. K. of Colonel Roosevelt on the Loeb boom.

With the O. K. of President Taft and of Colonel Roosevelt, those who profess to know seem to think that Mr. Loeb would not only be the logical candidate, but that he would be exceedingly well.

Calls Cabinet to Aid.

A conference is to be held before the end of the week between the president, Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh, Attorney General Wickersham and Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel. This will be, it was learned, one of the most important that has marked the administration of Mr. Taft.

The object of the conference is to lay out plans for settling once for all the Alaskan situation, and the disputes which led to the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy. Mr. Taft is understood to wish the immediate wiping out of every hint of scandal, particularly in reference to the Guggenheim claims. It is this which led to the determination to send the attorney general and Mr. Nagel to Alaska this summer.

This field investigation by two cabinet members is regarded as one of the most important outcomes of the row between the former forester, Gifford Pinchot, and Mr. Ballinger.

CUBANS SEIZED FOR PLOTING REVOLUTION

Colored Men Traced by Trunk
Containing Dynamite.

Havana, Cuba, July 12.—Colonel Jorge Valera, a mulatto, and six other persons, most of them colored men, were arrested by the secret police, charged with conspiring to start an uprising against the government.

The seven men were on their way to Vieja Bermeja. In the province of Matanzas, to which place a trunk containing arms and ammunition and dynamite had been shipped from Havana.

Letters and documents found on the prisoners are believed to implicate many other persons in the conspiracy. The trunk was traced by the police officials to the medical school of the Havana university. The janitor of that institution was arrested, and a large quantity of dynamite was found in his possession.

Young Mr. Drexel has been practicing for some time with Blériot monoplanes. His best previous achievement was at Brockenhurst, June 20, when he reached a height of 1070 feet.

"Time's Flight Turned Backward" SAGE AND SULPHUR

Made Her Look Twenty Years Younger

Read Mrs. Herrick's Sworn Statement

STATE OF NEW YORK) ss: ROCHSTER, N. Y.
COUNTY OF MONROE) ss:
Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a girl, I had a head of heavy, long dark brown hair which was the envy of my schoolmates, and which attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. As I grew older, my hair commenced to come out, just a little at first, but gradually more and more, and then began to turn gray. I was induced by the many good reports I had heard of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy to try a bottle. My hair was quite thin and gray when I began using Sage and Sulphur, and you can imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, being thicker, darker and more glossy than it had been for a long time. I continued to use Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is now as heavy, dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is still in splendid condition.

Sworn to before me this 12th day of July, 1912.

Prizes in return for suggestions for city beauty—that is the idea that is being carried on in various towns in the United States. The most unique prize so far heard of is one that will be offered by the city of Washington as a result of a real live suggestion made by an officer of the Municipal Art Society of New York.

Following is part of the official suggestion which touches on the possibilities of beautifying Washington's streets: "No one can see the magnificent street (referring to Pennsylvania avenue) without being impressed by its architectural possibilities and similarly disappointed with the architectural hodgepodge with which the beautiful street is lined.

"I would therefore suggest that if it is possible the best results might be obtained by the passage of an act which, while making no compulsory regulations for the construction of buildings on this street, would offer prizes to be given by the municipality for buildings which conformed to certain standards, those standards to deal not only with the character of the design and possibly with the material with which the facade of the building is constructed, but also with the two main heights—that is, the main cornice height and a subsidiary cornice height over the first story or basement; finally that these prizes be given in a remission of taxes on a sliding scale, according to the nearness with which the buildings conform to the standard set up by the act."

Another method of town beautifying that is worthy of a prize is by building a parkway in the middle of the principal streets. It is ornamental and serves to conceal trolley tracks and wires. The trees in the parkway should be high enough to hide the trolley poles and cars and to furnish shade to the business section.

OVERTAXED

Hundreds of Gettysburg Readers Know What It Means.

The kidneys are overtaxed; Have too much to do. They tell about it in many aches and pains—Backache, sideache, headache. Early symptoms of kidney ills. Urinary troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease follow.

A Gettysburg citizen tells here the way to keep the kidneys well. "Mrs. James Bumbaugh, 126 E. Middle Street, Gettysburg, Pa., says: 'I can confirm all I said in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills two years ago, when I gave a public statement, recommending them. My system was filled with uric acid and in the morning I was so stiff and lame that I could hardly get out of bed. My joints were swollen and the kidney secretions caused me much annoyance by their irregularity in passage. Acting on the advice of a friend, I finally procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the People's Drug Store. They helped me from the first and gradually the symptoms of my trouble disappeared until I was well. I urge anyone suffering from kidney complaint, to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial.'"

10,000 CHEER JACK JOHNSON

New York's Colored Population Storm Railroad Station.

APPEARS IN VAUDEVILLE

Conqueror of Jeffries Receives $2500 a Week For a Boxing Stunt—Wildly Cheered by Negroes.

New York, July 12.—Jack Johnson was given a hearty welcome when he arrived in this city. Colored friends scattered thousands of dollars which read:

"To Every Colored Man, Woman and Child in Greater New York—

"Be at the Grand Central station at 9.30 o'clock Monday morning and let us all shake the glad hand of the stalwart athlete, the greatest of the twentieth century.

"Come any way you want. Come in vehicles or on foot. All be there." "And I reckon they're all here," said Jack Johnson, as he alighted from the Twentieth Century Limited and radiated his "golden smile" on a density of colored citizenry that not only filled the station, but nearly blocked the streets besides. More than 10,000 colored people welcomed Johnson.

The fact that the train was nearly five hours late because of a wreck near Albany did not dull the edge of Johnson's greeting. The police, fearing trouble, refused a permit for a parade, but there were a score or more of automobiles on hand to escort Johnson to the hotel of a friend, where a reception was held.

There was a lusty cheer when Johnson emerged from his car and a rush to shake the champion's hand. A squad of police formed a guard for the big fighter and escorted him to a waiting automobile.

Then the car hustled for the stage entrance of the Victoria. Johnson piled out, went to his dressing room and had only a few minutes to get ready for the stunt which pays him $2500 a week.

The Victoria was jammed a low and aloft. No negroes sat in the auditorium, but the balcony and gallery were filled with them. The wisp waisted Polaire wiggled off the stage and the crowd sat back to wait for the champion. Up went the curtain and showed nothing but a punching bag swinging gently. A short thick-necked person waddled to the footlights and announced to the audience that it was to have the pleasure of seeing the "champion of all champions, Mr. Jack Johnson." (Cheers from balcony and gallery. Hand clapping from the main floor.)

Out danced Johnson from the wings in a blue low necked and sleeveless jersey and blue trunks, with a silk American flag for a belt. He flashed a smile and went about his business. The more you looked the more you realized what Jeffries was up against. Johnson moved his great bulk with a cat's quickness. He tap tapped the punching bag until he had it hammering the oak; then he walloped it with right and left hooks. His legs appeared thin in comparison with his tremendously developed shoulders and arms. Finally the rope broke and the bag went spinning. The spectators clapped their hands enthusiastically. Johnson grinned and ran off the stage.

Walter Monahan, introduced as "the former amateur heavyweight champion of the Pacific coast," stepped out to spar with the champion. Johnson played with him through three one minute rounds. He jabbed Monahan lightly now and then, but for the last part he contented himself with blocking the white man's swings and hooks. Toward the end of the third round Monahan ran his nose against Johnson's left glove and his upper lip reddened. After that Johnson merely gave an exhibition of scientific blocking.

There was applause all over the house then. Johnson disappeared after a bow or two. Not a man had hissed him or showed a sign of disapproval.

There was a party for Jack after the night show and it lasted until the morning hours. The champion bought champagne with both hands, but he drank very little of it himself.

The cow needs good feed the same as the horse. In fact, she should have the best for her milk is designed for human consumption and cannot be too carefully guarded. Too often the thoughtless farmer puts off the poorest food on his cow. It may be musty or dusty or half rotten—anything he considers good enough for the cow. This is all wrong and very bad policy. If the refuse must be fed give it to inferior calves or less important stock. Yet such is bad policy for even these

LEAP FROM TRAIN FATAL

Wilkes-Barre Minister Escapes Wheels But Breaks Neck.

Allentown, Pa., July 12.—Rev. Hugh Davies, of Wilkes-Barre, a Welsh Presbyterian pastor, who is widely known throughout the coal regions, met a tragic death in this city.

He was a passenger on a Jersey Central passenger train, and was presumably on his way to visit his daughter, Mrs. M. A. Davis, at Skelly, Bucks county. He should have changed cars at Bethlehem, but for some inexplicable reason he rushed to the door of the car as the train was pulling into the Allentown station and jumped off backward.

He was thrown under the train, but the wheels missed his body. The force of the fall was sufficient, however, to break his neck, and when pulled out from under the train the man was dead. He was seventy-two years old.

Cleveland, widow of the late President Grover Cleveland, have been charged with postage due at the postoffice to which they were addressed, the postmaster general has issued an order calling attention of postmasters to the bill passed at the last session of congress whereby Mrs. Cleveland's letters, as likewise those of Mrs. Mary Lord Harrison, widow of the late President Harrison, are entitled to transmission free of charge.

SUBMARINE RAMS GUNBOAT CASTINE

Bonita Misjudged Distance in Maneuvers.

Provincetown, Mass., July 12.—The gunboat Castine, flagship of the submarine flotilla, was rammed by the submarine Bonita during the maneuvers and was beached to prevent her from sinking. No one on board was injured.

Two of the plates of the Castine were loosened. Her dynamo and boiler compartments between frames No. 19 and No. 51 were flooded, but the bulkheads are said to be holding firm.

The accident happened during a mimic attack on the Castine by the submarines, the Bonita apparently misjudging the distance and striking the gunboat with considerable force. The men on both boats felt the impact and some were momentarily stunned, but no one was injured. The Bonita escaped with the slight denting of a portion of her armor and the loss of a small section of her railing.

As soon as it was seen how badly the Castine was damaged it was decided to beach her near North Truro.

LIGHTNING GOES FOUR MILES

Same Bolt Splits House, Kills Woman and Horse.

Pottsville, Pa., July 12.—A bolt of lightning, which looked to spectators to be six inches in width, traveled four miles along the surface of the earth and at Mount Hope split a double house in twain. The furniture was overturned and the family thrown out of bed.

Two miles further on a horse was electrocuted and two miles further on Mrs. James Bender was struck and killed. Her husband was also knocked unconscious, but recovered when his body was placed in moist clay.

Investigation showed that the bolt continued on its way near the earth's surface, killing dogs and chickens and in a number of instances knocking down fences.

DALZELL RECOUNT BEGINS

Every Ballot Box in the Congressional District Will Be Opened.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 12.—After weeks of wrangling over the result of the primary elections in the Thirtieth congressional district, which, by first count, gave a majority of 197 for the renomination of Congressman John Dalzell, a full recount of all 112 ballot boxes was begun here.

Supporters of Dr. Robert J. Black, former mayor of McKeesport, have been contending that a full recount will show him to have a majority of nearly 1000 over Dalzell.

GOVERNOR SUSPENDS MAYOR

Newark, O., Executive Ousted Because of Lying.

Columbus, O., July 12.—Governor Harmon suspended Mayor Atherton of Newark, pending an investigation of his actions during Friday night's rioting, which resulted in the lynching of Carl Etherington, the "dry" detective.

Charges against Sheriff Linke, of Licking county, for not preventing the lynching of Etherington are on the way, and, it is said, the governor will suspend him also.

Chicago, July 12.—Under the terms of the will of the late Melville W. Fuller, chief justice of the supreme court of the United States, which was filed in the probate court, the children of the jurist and their direct heirs will share equally in the division of his estate. This is estimated to amount to nearly $1,000,000.

For the Shepherd.

Lambs that were dropped in April will now begin to eat grain in an enclosure where the ewes cannot enter.

Crushed oats, ground wheat or wheat bran and oilmeal make a good mixture. Some corn may be added a little later to hasten the fattening. Do not sell a half fat lamb; it is poor business.

Do not let the ewes run down for lack of a little grain in addition to the pasture.

CURTISS SETS NEW AIR MARK

Aviator Makes 40 Miles an Hour at Atlantic City.

THE RECORDS WILL STAND

No Attempt to Beat Altitude Fly by Brookings to Be Made—Many Sensational Flights.

Atlantic City, July 12.—In the first aeroplane flight on an over-the-ocean course, and the first fifty miles speed soar over any kind of course, Glenn Curtiss made a record of 1 hour, 14 minutes and 59 seconds.

This is almost exactly at the rate of forty miles an hour. While it is the first established record for a measured fifty mile course, the speed rate has frequently been exceeded. Curtiss himself has often flown faster.

A quartering breeze blowing at the rate of eleven miles an hour held him back probably five miles an hour, according to his own calculations.

The addition of seventy-five pounds to the weight of the machine and the change in the concave contour of the under side of the lower plane also helped to make record breaking speed impossible.

The added weight came from dozens of inflated bicycle tires and from other buoyant material that was packed under and around the machine to prevent it from sinking with the aviator if it should fall into the ocean.

These life savers were packed so closely under the lower plane that the concavity necessary to perfect flight was altered into a perfectly flat surface.

"I could beat this record by at least ten minutes in an overland flight," said Curtiss when he descended. "Still I am perfectly willing to let it stand until some one better it by taking chances in an unbuoyed machine."

By this flight Curtiss wins the $5000 prize for the fastest fifty miles flight on a measured over-the-ocean course. The Wright biplane will not be sent over the course.

So the records for this meet will read:

Walter S. Brookings, world's high-flying championship, 6275 feet.

Glenn Curtiss, first fifty miles over the ocean flight, record, 1 hour, 14 minutes and 59 seconds.

The meet will last two days longer, but there will be no more attempts at record breaking.

The fifty miles dash by Curtiss was not the only aviatorial feat of the day. Curtiss later made a straight climb of 1550 feet in 5 minutes, 51.13 seconds. This was the record allowed by the official timekeepers.

Curtiss closed his work for the day by taking Lincoln Beachey, the driver of dirigible balloons, aloft on a "hop" from pier to pier. On this soar Beachey stood on Curtiss' seat behind the aviator and waved his hands to the cheering crowd.

The big circus stunts of the day were provided by Walter Brookings and his partner, Frank P. Coffyn, in their Wright biplane. Brookings stood the big machine in end in sensational "banking" exhibitions, dived in the machine's width, executed a corker screw glide that sent a wave of goose-flesh over the crowd and gave a "bucking" exhibition, in which the machine leaped into the air like an unbroken mustang.

Brookings and Frank P. Coffyn next did a "brother act" in the air. Brookings working the levers, in this flight there was more fancy banking and close circling.

Coffyn gave the first exhibition of the day when he soared alone. Half a dozen circles and two figure eights were included in his demonstration.

KILLED BY TRAINS

Two Prominent Philadelphians Meet Violent Deaths.

Philadelphia, July 12.—F. H. Lincoln, vice president of the Electric Service Supplies company, was killed while trying to board a train at the West Philadelphia station of the Pennsylvania railroad. Mr. Lincoln in December, 1909, resigned as assistant general manager of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company. He was the inventor of the pay-within type of trolleys now in use on the Philadelphia lines.

While running for a train at the Toga station of the Reading railway, Rev. Jacob Gallade, D. D., a prominent Baptist clergyman, met a shocking death. He was tossed by a locomotive whose approach he did not see directly in the path of the train he meant to board, and was mangled in the ponderous machinery, with his six-year-old daughter looking at the spectacle.

Mrs. Gould Weds Quietly at Home.

New York, July 12.—Mrs. Helen Kelly Gould and Ralph Hill Thomas, nephew of Washington Thomas, president of the American Sugar Refining company, were married in Mrs. Gould's apartments on Park avenue by Rev. Dr. Webster, of the Brick Presbyterian church. Joseph Thomas, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man, and the bride was given away by her mother, Mrs. Edmund Kelly. The wedding party was composed of only the immediate friends of the couple.

RID THE TOWN OF BILLBOARDS

Obnoxious Poster Should Be Eliminated From Rural Communities.

Did you ever go into a town or city and see every dead wall or vacant space taken up with signboards plastered with colored obnoxious posters advertising the wares of mail order houses? That's the sight that usually confronts the visitor to the average city or town throughout the United States.

Now, the billboard habit is one that should be fought severely by all towns which look forward to becoming great communities. Just so long as a town allows these obnoxious posters to deface its streets, just so long that town is going to remain unprogressive.

The war on billboards in the past few years has become nation wide. Cincinnati, St. Louis and Kansas City are among the cities that are waging a strong fight to eliminate this means of defacement. In St. Louis 50 per cent of the space occupied by offensive and unsightly billboards will be cleared by the building commissioner as a result of a decision recently handed down by the supreme court, which upholds the validity of the billboard ordinance of St. Louis.

One supreme court judge stated that St. Louis has a right to regulate and control billboards and kindred methods of advertising, but that that may be controlled by legislative enactment.

The judge also said that the average billboard is a constant menace to public safety, health and morals by its pictures and constitutes a hiding place and retreat for criminals.

Sheep on Roughage.

If corn is scarce sheep will beat hogs on pasture, provided they get plenty of corn. But when the hogs get plenty of corn they will range pretty well with sheep. Both animals have their place. Hogs are of no use to work at roughage. A small flock of sheep will do better than a large one.

BUTTERMILK AS A FEED FOR PIGS.

When Properly Used It Has Value as a Meat Maker.

Answering an inquiry as to the value of buttermilk as a feed for pigs, the Iowa Homestead says: We are not able to give the results of much scientific investigation conducted along this line, as the experiment stations seem to have in a large measure passed the subject up. Professor Henry makes the claim that when buttermilk is not diluted its feeding value is practically equivalent to that of skim milk, and skim milk has a feeding value of about 30 cents per 100 pounds when corn is worth a cent a pound. It has been determined that milk has this value when it is fed in the proportion of not more than three pounds of skim milk to one pound of meal. Fed in this proportion, it was found that 327 pounds of milk were equivalent to 100 pounds of cornmeal. Experiments conducted abroad indicate a lower feeding value, and one instance is cited where six pounds of skim milk had the same feeding value as one pound of grain.

It cannot be denied that a great many persons condemn the use of both skim milk and buttermilk for pigs, but as a matter of fact either one can be utilized as an economical meat maker if sensible precautions are taken. We would not advise feeding buttermilk three times a day, nor is it always advisable to give pigs all the buttermilk they will drink. Where considerable corn is fed a very good way to use buttermilk is to soak the corn in it for a period of twelve or possibly twenty-four hours. This is an ideal way to get the best results from the use of either skim milk or buttermilk. Care should be taken to see that the barrel is cleaned out at the end of twenty-four hours, because souring can go on to that point where it amounts to the same thing as putrefaction.

Lampas in Colts.
Lampas rarely does any injury in mature horses, but in colts, when gums are inflamed, they are annoying. The best remedy is a few incisions with a knife from back to front. We use a "lampas enter," which is a hooked cutter and much safer than a pocket knife, for if you cut the palatine artery a serious hemorrhage is apt to occur.

Samose Sold Under L. M. Buehler's
"No Cure No Pay" Plan

There are a good many people in Gettysburg who ardently wish they could find some way of getting fat and plump. While not ill, yet they are so thin and scrawny that their friends think they cannot be well. In nine cases out of ten this condition can be readily overcome by using the combination of flesh-forming foods known as Samose.

Before the discovery of Samose, people who were thin, weak and run down were advised to take some nauseous preparation but now with this flesh-forming food in palatable form nothing at all disagreeable is necessary to gain weight.

L. M. Buehler has the agency for this preparation and sells it with the promise that if it does not do all that is claimed for it in making people gain in weight and in health, the money will be refunded.

BASEBALL

First Inning.

Copyright, 1901, by the S. S. McClure Company

THE midmorning Colorado sun beat down upon a restless little group of men on the steps of Fort Morton courthouse, upon the dusty cottonwood trees growing dispiritedly on each side of the road that stretched away from the little sandy square to become a few hundred yards below the main street of the town and upon the tin roofs of the two story brick or frame stores on each side of it. The jury had been overnight and, although it was 10 o'clock in the morning, had given no sign. The prisoner had not yet been brought up from the county jail near by, and the group of men directly interested in the proceedings were sitting and lounging about the steps, smoking and carrying on desultory conversation. The district judge, sitting on the top step, was an eastern college man, about forty years of age, once an athlete and still with a trim, slender figure. The only touch of the western in his dress was the gray slouch hat worn straight and firmly set upon his brown hair.

"A pretty bit of grazing land," he was saying to the sheriff as he looked out over the level prairie, dotted here and there with an adobe shack and occasional herds of cattle.

The sheriff, a brawny, blue shirted young fellow of thirty, with unkempt hair and mustache, uncrossed his booted legs, straightened out one of them, pushed his hand deep into the pocket of his corduroy trousers and yawned. As his coat was thrust back with the movement the butt of his 44 caliber "gun" might be seen. Without replying he drew out a large silver watch and studied it absently.

The small boys among the group of braggies on in front of the steps were beguiling themselves tossing ball, and the prosecuting attorney, a young graduate from the east, who had come up from Pueblo, called out:

"Here you are, Johnnie; give us a catch!"

The small boy who had the ball grinned sheepishly and threw it at him.

"Harder, harder!" said the young lawyer cheerily. "That's no way to pitch a ball. Throw it this way." And the boy's hands were scorched as he caught the return.

"Say, kin you pitch a curve?" he asked. "Let's see you do it." "All right," said Hardy, rising good naturedly and taking off his coat. "Here you go. Hold on," he added. "You couldn't catch it if I did. Here, Mr. Hackett, go out there and let me throw you a few curves."

The others laughed at this, for Hackett, the senior counsel for the defense, also up from Pueblo for the trial, was an enormous middle aged Hoosier, six feet two in height and weighing 250 pounds. He had a mass of crisp black hair and wore a black broadcloth frock coat and trousers, low turned down collar and ready made tie. He was slow moving and ponderous, though forceful and shrewd in his profession, deliberate of speech and anything but an athlete.

"Here, I'll catch you," exclaimed the junior counsel, Blake, a somewhat lanky, powerfully built westerner, rising and depositing his rough brown sack coat beside Hardy's.

"Gee, you've got muscle!" he added, rubbing his hands after the first pass.

"Hurray!" yelled the small boy. "That was a corker. Git on to them curves, Clarence!" he cried in worshipful admiration.

"Wouldn't mind a little of that exercise myself," said the judge, rising listlessly and hesitating on the steps.

"Why not have a little game while we are waiting?" said Hardy half jokingly. "Come on, sheriff."

Moved by a common impulse, the little group brightened up, threw away their cigar ends and moved half apologetically into the sandy square. At the left of the courthouse and adjoining it was a small open field of well trodden dusty grass, where a scratch ball game was played occasionally and where horses were tethered during court. One of the small boys was dispatched for a suitable bat and ball and a catcher's glove, and by the time the sides were arranged he came racing back with them, highly excited, followed by several other small boys.

ing it was a small open field of well trodden dusty grass, where a scratch ball game was played occasionally and where horses were tethered during court. One of the small boys was dispatched for a suitable bat and ball and a catcher's glove, and by the time the sides were arranged he came racing back with them, highly excited, followed by several other small boys.

COPPERTHWAIT CAME TO THE BAT.

the steps, but the reaction had worked insidiously. The trial had been a particularly exciting one, and those who had followed it were tired after the three days' strain in the ill ventilated courtroom. The sympathies of all had undoubtedly been with the prisoner, although the state had been vigorous in its prosecution and the judge had conscientiously done his duty. Murder had been committed at Jamestown Creek a few months previously, though a change of venue had been obtained to Fort Morton, the prisoner's own town. Copperthwait had always been a quiet, law abiding ranchman. He was under thirty years of age, big broad shouldered and swarthy, different in manner and somewhat slow of speech, though he had been slowly and thoroughly angered in a quarrel over a bunch of cattle. Six or eight steers had been branded twice, one mark over the other, and the dispute arose over this. Duke, the victim of the shooting, had borne a bad reputation, and the village street was usually more or less uneasy during his infrequent visits. He had killed his man and had been known to boast of it several times in Flynn's saloon. After this last quarrel he had sworn to shoot Copperthwait on sight. The quarrel had occurred in the morning. That afternoon Copperthwait had just left the Eagle hotel to mount his mustang tied to the hitching post in front when Duke happened to turn the corner.

"Here comes Duke!" a bystander exclaimed. Copperthwait started and caught sight of his adversary. Duke stopped short and put his hand behind him, and Copperthwait, quick as a flash, fired once and put a bullet between Duke's eyes. He had offered no resistance to arrest and now was in the rough little jail near by while the twelve good men and true deliberated in the hot back room under the tin roof of the courthouse.

"I guess my hands are a little too soft to play," said the judge good naturedly, feeling a qualm as to the appropriateness of his joining actively in the sport, "but I'll be umpire if you want me."

The two teams were quickly formed, the "Comanches" against the "Sioux." The Sioux won the toss and took the field, and the Comanches were struck out in one, two, three order. When the sides changed Hardy, the prosecuting attorney, took the box, and Blake, the junior counsel for the defense, caught him. After much urging the judge had consented to preside over first base since Mr. Hackett had positively refused to play and had been made umpire by general acclaim. As soon as his honor found himself coatless and on the field he threw himself into the battle with the greatest enthusiasm.

The runs were frequent and the errors numerous, and at the end of the third inning so many hands were sore and so many arms growing stiff that it was mutually decided by the teams to call the next inning the last. The score stood 11 runs for the Comanches (the team made up of Judge Hillier, Hardy, Blake, the keeper of the Eagle hotel and one or two other witnesses) and 9 for the Sioux, the battery of which was formed by the court clerk and the sheriff, whose heavy, long oots, extending far up inside his corduroys, detracted somewhat from any grace of movement he might have had as he lent his entire soul and mind to the clerk's erratic curves, and backed up by the assistant prosecutor, the stenographer and several witnesses.

At the beginning of the fourth and now in a frantic crowd between third and home, yelling like their prototypes, and the Comanches were also noisy. "Go it, Copperthwait!" shouted his teammates. "Get home and you'll win the game! Steady now! Look out, look out! Don't let them catch you!" "Now, Hardy," pleaded the judge, "for heaven's sake play ball! Don't let him make this run!" "Steady, Hardy," said the catcher. "Watch my signs."

The janitor had crept up close to first base. "Say, judge," he whispered to his honor, who was now dancing like an Indian and watching every move of the pitcher and Copperthwait with devouring anxiety—"say, judge, the jury has come in and is ready with the verdict."

"Oh, to be with the jury!" snapped out the judge. "Go on with the game!" Hardy slammed in the ball straight over the plate, the baseman bunted it for a sacrifice hit, and Copperthwait, who had crept nearly halfway, rushed in and slid triumphantly to the plate on his stomach.

"Safe!" yelled the umpire, and pandemonium broke loose.

"I guess 'safe' is the word, all right," muttered the janitor to the deputy, who had instantly started for the prisoner. "I had a wink from the foreman of the jury as he came in."

concluding finding the deputy sheriff had come up with the prisoner, who was not handcuffed, and they became interested onlookers. Copperthwait's nerve had been superb throughout the trial, and he seemed to take an instant interest in the game.

Just after play had commenced Hardy knocked a hot grounder to short, who fielded the ball swiftly to first base. The baseman caught it, putting Hardy out, and then quietly remarked:

"That settles me. Look at this thumb!"

"See here, old man," Hardy panted, examining it; "it's broken."

"Well, never mind; let somebody take my place. Here, some one—you, Mulligan. Come and take the base. I'm out of it."

"Guess not," said Mulligan, the deputy. "I ain't played ball since—"

"Go on with the game!" cried a dozen others excitedly. "Some one, any one, take the base."

"Here, Copperthwait, play first base. We've only got to hold 'em down this inning and we'll beat 'em easy. There's one out already."

Copperthwait looked uncertainly at the deputy, then at the judge, and quickly pulled off his coat and stepped to the base. His face showed clearly the prison pallor, and this warm sunlight and fresh air seemed wonderfully sweet to his spirit. Taken suddenly away from the active, vigorous life of the ranch, for seven months confined in a dreary prison, the world had seemed gradually to recede from his life. This sudden contrast of green, open field, ringing with the hearty voices of his fellow men, and the vision of the free, limitless prairie on all sides was a tragic one to the man.

"Go ahead," he said quietly. "I'll play."

The Comanches failed to make a run during the rest of the inning, and when the Sioux came in they made two runs almost at once, tying the score amid great enthusiasm.

As Copperthwait came to the bat it was evident that the psychological moment of the sport had arrived. Everything had been completely forgotten save the game, and so intense was the interest that the approach of the courthouse janitor was entirely unnoticed. He had come slowly down from the steps and after a few moments of bewildered surprise stood leaning against a tree near the catcher, watching the prisoner as he slowly moved his bat backward and forward.

"One ball!" yelled Mr. Hackett, mopping his neck with his handkerchief.

"Two balls!"

"Strike one!"

"Three balls!"

Crack!

The ball flew straight from the bat high above the right fielder's head, and Copperthwait was safe on second before the ball was fielded in.

The janitor began to grow very uneasy and edged slowly down the field toward the first baseman. The crowd yelled as Copperthwait, still panting, edged off toward third. Hardy turned suddenly and tried to catch him napping, but in his excitement he threw a little wild, the baseman missed it, and Copperthwait reached third amid much uproar. The Sioux were all gathered
